If I were a fish

So, let me be clear… Being a fish can't be that bad. If I were a fish, I would probably just swim, you know. I'd dive, swim and probably eat water. If I were that little animal, I would probably have these funny eyes and an awesome mouth. If I were this animal that does glub-glub all the time, I would probably be caught by some fishermen and be eaten by them. That would be funny you know, because when you're in the sea no one cares about you but when you get caught everyone is like: oh fish, oh my God that's so good. People would enjoy me. Anyway, that's not the point. If I were… If I were that big fish you know, the biggest that is named after a whale, then I would…. Swim? Actually, yes fish is a fish you can't change anything. Also, if I were a fish, I would also do that glub-glub thing with my mouth and just look around and eat some plastic, make friends with turtles and… Yes, actually being a fish is kind of bad but hey, fish is fish.

By Vanč, 9.b